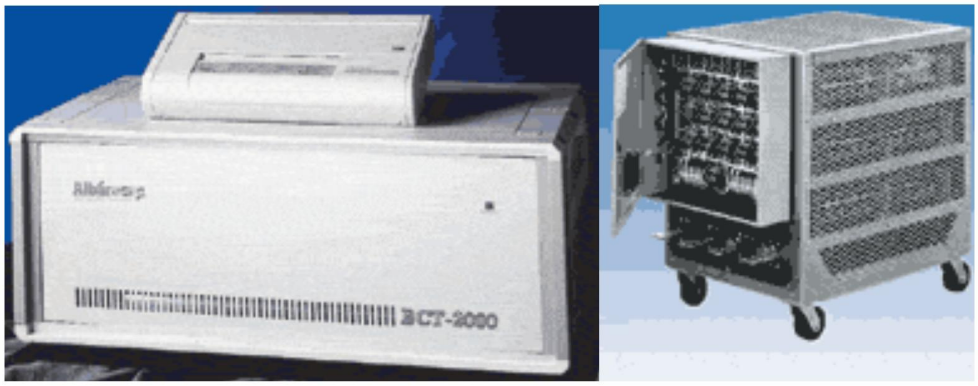
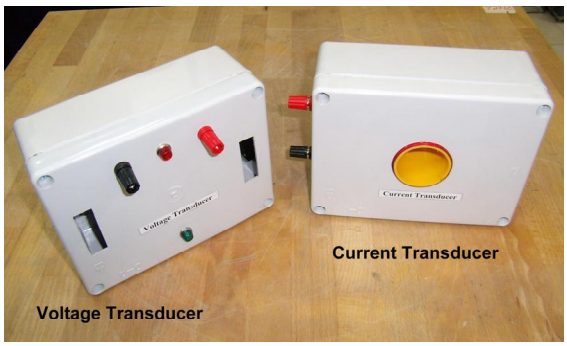
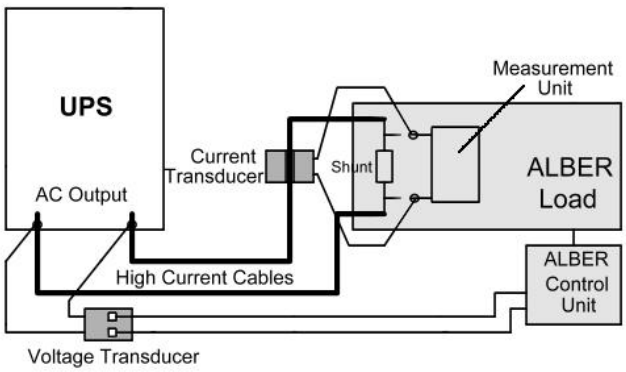
For measurement of capacity of powerful accumulator batteries, and also for check of serviceability of powerful chargers and power supplies with an output current up to 600 A the system Alber including the control unit, a computer and powerful controlled load is used. This system is intended only for work with a direct current.

Special measuring converters (current and voltage transducers) connected to system Alber which allows using this system as well in circuits of an alternating current for tests of powerful UPS are offered.






Alber System